LEIGH CREEK. 13TH JUNE, 1956.

Volume 2.
Issue 3.

PRICE 1d.

One of our basic freedoms which we seem to be in danger of losing is that of being and giving of our best.

The aims of our present day culture are avowedly ease and material well-being, shorter hours, a shorter week, more return for less accomplishment, more excuses and fewer honest, realistic demands.

Each one of us has resting upon him unfilled obligations from which we cannot escape whether we acknowledge them or not. We build on foundations which others have laid for us. Our daily wants are met by the multiplied ministries of our fellow men. No man is self made, and what a man does for himself, were it not connected with what others do for him, would amount to little. From our parents, teachers, and through good books, the radio, etc., the accumulated knowledge and wisdom of the past is transmitted to us. We thus begin where others have left off and the utmost we can do is to give of our best and make some slight contribution to the stores already accumulated.

Each one of us owes a debt to his country for the protection of life and property, for stability of government and for the rights and privileges for which others have toiled and into which countless lives have been expended.

What does anyone possess that he does not receive from God? From Him all blessings flow - even those ministered by human hands.

All the good we enjoy, the privileges which have come down to us make our own lives richer - that ought to move us to give our best for the enrichment of our race. Too often when opportunities for service present themselves, we tend to shirk our obligations and leave the task for someone else to accomplish. There is an old and well known story which will serve as an illustration.

Many years ago, a new fountain was to be officially opened by a visiting celebrity in the centre of a small town. The water supply for the fountain came from a large storage tank situated in the hills above the town, and in order to make the initial turning on more impressive the mayor had asked each resident of the town to supply one bottle of milk and to pour this into the storage tank on the day prior to the opening ceremony.

One person, however, had thought to himself: well milk is so expensive so I will put in a bottle full of water and nobody will even notice my omission.

When the great ceremony had reached a climax and the fountain was officially turned on, instead of showering forth milk it sprayed only water. You see, each person had thought everybody else would do his share and that his omission would not be noticed.

"We shall pass through this world but once: Any good thing which I can do, let me do it now.. Let me not defer nor neglect it. For I shall not pass this way again."

16-STOREY MOBILE SHOVEL.

Called "The Mountaineer", the largest shovel ever built in America is at work removing 90-ton bites of earth from coal seams in eastern Ohio. Towering 16 stories in the air and weighing 5½ million pounds, it is said to be the largest unit of mobile land machinery. The builders say the shovel has enough power to lift a platform of 166 motor-cars 100 feet in the air swing them the length of a football field, and set them on top of a 10-storey building and then swing back - all in 45 seconds.

 COPLEY NEWS **

We hope that the Woodifield family soon overcome their bout of sickness. Mr. Woodifield and Trevor are both suffering from mumps. We wish them a speedy recovery.

To Mrs. McFarlane and children we extend our best wishes, and hope that in their new sphere they will remember some happy times at Copley - perhaps even the last few hurried moments of packing. The McFarlanes are to live with Mrs. McFarlane's parents, Mr. & Mrs. Heyford, of Port Adelaide.

Mrs. Keith Lillecrapp has been staying at Yankaninna for about a fortnight preparing the home for her son and brand new daughter-in-law. We also hear that Gordon Lillecrapp has become engaged to Miss Mary Lord, and they plan to be married in October. Rain.. don't mention the word.. has made the roads rather messy. Mr. & Mrs. Lillecrapp started out on Friday, 7th, for Auburn but didn't get any further than Puttapa Hill before they were obliged to turn back.

Mr. & Mrs. Lillecrapp said they thought Copley Hotel would be far more comfortable than the mighty Ford in which to spend the rather cold night..

Once more the contractors at the School have been held up due to lack of materials, which should have arrived per railway.

54,000 MIGRANTS HERE VIA I.C.E.M.

Australia received more assisted European migrants in 1955 than any other country.

The Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration states that just under 54,000 Europeans migrated to Australia during the year.

Twenty thousand migrants went to the United States and 15,000 to Argentina.

Altogether, 120,000 Europeans migrated last year under the auspices of ICEM.

WHERE MUCH OF THE WORLD'S GOLD LIES.

Sixty-five feet below sea-level, in the rock beneath the Second District Federal Reserve Bank of New York, glitter some 7,000 tons of pure gold bricks which are worth 8 billion dollars. This gold is the security for the paper currency of 60 foreign Governments and some world institutions like the International Bank.

As the balance of international trade changes, the men who work in this bullion stronghold move the gold bricks from one country's cell to another.

This is done so that each country can know specifically what is theirs in fact. Each brick weighs about 27 lb., and the gold is of the very finest and is much softer than the gold used in jewellery. Great care has to be taken that the bricks are not dropped.

Auditors from time to time have to have the endless brick walls taken down brick by brick and reassembling them in new piles to ensure that each country has its right amount.

Very large amounts of gold went to the United States during the Second World War for safe keeping. Many of the gold crates arrived in boxes hastily addressed to "The Federal Reserve Bank of New York," to which they had been shipped at the height of an invasion or Governmental upset.

The Central Watch Room for this vault is protected by bullet proof glass and a maze of dials, signal lights, buzzers and bells to give split second warning of any trouble.

STOP PRESS: BIRTH.

KEANE: To Joe and Mrs. Keane on this day, June 12 - a SON (John).

R.S.L. NEWS.

The Secretary, Mr. M.S. 'Mick' Keane, has been appointed to represent the Leigh Creek Far-Northern Sub-Branch at the Sub-Branch Conference to be held in Adelaide from July 16-18.

Any Member who has any points he would like the Secretary to bring under notice whilst in Adelaide is asked to contact Mr. Keane. Any subject that is for the good of the Sub-Branch, such as Membership Pension or Welfare may be discussed.

It will be five years next month since our R.S.L. Hall was opened by Sir George Jenkins. There have not been many improvements made so far, but the Club is hoping to build a fence around the block before the end of the year, and it has also been suggested that we plant a few more trees when the tree-planting time comes around. The ideas are good ones and from a community point of view the more we can improve the block the more we are adding to the town's appearance. Our motto at all times should be one of Progress.

The next Committee Meeting is on June 24, and the General Meeting on July 2.

Thanks to local generosity a cheque for over £20 will be sent to Legacy. We particularly thank Mrs. E.V. Pierpoint of Copley for her assistance in this appeal.

It is the intention of the Sub-Branch to have Plaques placed on the graves of Returned Servicemen who are buried in the Copley Cemetery, and also on the grave of one of our Members who is buried at Hawker. The Sub-Branch feels that these men

In a memo from Headquarters in Adelaide to Country Members, it has been stressed that accommodation is available at the Club, but booking should be made well ahead of time to avoid disappointment.

It is in the interests of the Club to keep up membership, so will all Members who are not financial please see to this matter immediately.

The next Sports Club Meeting is to be held on Friday, June 15. There will be games of Darts, Quoits, Bowls and Cards, and you might even get yourself an argument about cricket.
